Holiday Grant Application

Please provide the following information for items I. through III. by answering all questions in ONE PAGE-12 Font. Please be thorough, clear, specific, and concise.

I. Organization/Agency Background: State your mission, vision, purpose, and provide a brief history. What are your core programs and activities? How many people do you serve? How many paid staff, full time and part-time? How many volunteers?

Founded in 1965 during the War on Poverty movement, Community Action Partnership of Orange County (CAP OC) was designated as the official anti-poverty agency to serve Orange County's poor. We believe that poverty in all its forms is degrading to individuals and represents a clear threat to the continued health and prosperity of our nation. CAP OC strives to end poverty and hunger in our communities by staying true to our mission of "eliminating and preventing the root causes and effects of poverty through mobilizing and directing resources to programs that assist, educate, and promote self-sufficiency".

Our safety-net programs help underserved people move out of poverty and towards self-sufficiency. Along with providing emergency food programs through our OC Food Bank, we also conduct Cal Fresh (Food Stamp) outreach, health, wellness and nutrition education, utility assistance, and home weatherization services. We operate two family resource centers, El Modena and Anaheim Independencia, that provide emergency assistance, family strengthening and development, education and employment programs, senior meals, youth programs, in addition to offering a variety of community services. We work with local leaders and low-income residents to bring solutions and resources to solve community problems, renew hope, and build stronger, healthier neighborhoods.

The agency has 117 full-time employees and 3 AmeriCorps Fellows that work in our: OC Food Bank; Community Partnerships & Services; Family Resource Centers; Energy & Environmental Services; Administration; and Planning & Fund Development. The proposed Farm to Family program will be managed by our OC Food Bank, which currently has 35 employees and over 24,000 volunteers annually.

CAP OC's Board of Directors is comprised of 18 community members representing County government, businesses, and low-income people. It is accountable to the community and oversees our President and CEO. The Board is ethnically diverse, with many of its members representing different communities and cultures throughout Orange County.

II. Project Information: Describe your food distribution program. ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS. Explain the community need including demographics, geographic characteristics of the area or community to be served, community conditions and income level. What are the specific activities of the food program?

Food insecurity is a condition of not having enough food to eat but also not having access to a sufficient variety of foods for adequate nourishment. Food insecurity impacts over 13% of adults and 24% of children in Orange County. As an indicator of poverty, nearly half (49%) of all Orange County students are eligible for Free or Reduced Price lunch. Sadly, for many, that will be the healthiest meal of the day. According to the U.S. Census, 16.9% of Orange County's children were living in poverty in 2016, a 24.3% increase from 2010 (13.6%), while remaining lower than California (21.9%) and the United States (21.2%). However, when the cost of living and a range of family needs and resources are factored in (including social safety net benefits), poverty among O.C. children jumps to 24.6%, surpassing California at 22.8%, with a threshold income needed to maintain a basic standard of living for a family of four at $33,700. Source: 24th Annual Report on the Conditions of Orange County Children.

Data shows that there is a relationship between a family's food security and assurance of a healthy life. Households with food insecurity are more likely to experience reduced diet quality, stress and anxiety about food, increased use of emergency food sources or other coping behaviors, and hunger. To help meet the growing needs of the community, our OC Food Bank operates a variety of food distribution programs such as the Emergency Food Assistance Program (EFAP), Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP), and the Emergency Food and Shelter Program (EFSP). Staple foods, protein, and fresh produce are provided to nearly 400 local nonprofits, faith-based agencies, food pantries, soup kitchens, and shelters every day of the week. The OC Food Bank also pioneers sustainable, grassroots, community-centered strategies that collaborate with food industry leaders to increase access to fresh, nutritious foods. Collaborating with the California Association of Food Banks, farmers, shippers and food packers, the OC Food Bank acquires surplus, locally grown fruits and vegetables at below wholesale prices, then packages and dispenses them in 3-10 lb. bags (depending on produce type) at no cost to vulnerable households. In 2017, we distributed 2,976,189 pounds or 2,480,158 meals of fresh produce to approximately 595,238 (duplicated) people, including at-risk children, struggling families, and vulnerable seniors and veterans.

Our OC Food Bank is currently experiencing fewer food donations along with a shortage of funds to conduct bulk food and fresh produce purchases. The support of the S.L. Gimbel Foundation will help strengthen and expand a system which provides access to fresh, healthy foods to the tables of needy children and families.

How do you identify/qualify those in need? How often is the food distribution offered?

Community Action Partnership and its OC Food Bank have established eligibility guidelines that reference the Federal Poverty Level. Trained workers determine client eligibility at agency distribution sites through enrollment forms and verification of income sources. Our Food Bank member agencies must have nonprofit status, operate meaningful food assistance programs, and be willing to comply with client eligibility and reporting.

Food distribution services are provided every day of the week to nearly 400 local nonprofits, faith-based agencies, food pantries, soup kitchens, and shelters. The OC Food Bank also directly distributes USDA-approved food boxes through its Commodity Supplemental Food Program to over 25,000 low-income, at-risk seniors each month at 56 distribution sites throughout Orange County, and parts of Los Angeles and Riverside counties.

How many people will be served by the food distribution program (children, youth, adults, seniors)? Please explain how you keep track of number of people served.

The Farm to Family program helps bridge the gap between our state's surplus produce and people in need. Funding of $15,000 will be used to acquire an additional 125,000 pounds of fresh produce for approximately 41,667 low-income children, adults, and vulnerable seniors at risk of hunger and malnutrition.

Our objectives are: 1) Acquire 125,000 pounds of seasonal, locally grown fresh produce at below market rates; 2) Volunteer groups will package produce into 3-10 lb. bags; 3) OC Food Bank will distribute produce bags to partner agencies that feed the hungry; and 4) Track the pounds of produce acquired and distributed and number of persons served.

Support of the S.L. Gimbel Foundation will provide additional resources for our OC Food Bank and increase the availability of fresh produce, helping to improve nutrition and reduce food insecurity for struggling families and seniors.

Key Outcomes and Results

 10. Describe the project's key outcomes and results based on your goals and objectives:

One of our largest programs, the Orange County Food Bank (OCFB), fulfills an extremely valuable mandate - providing food on an emergency basis to people in need. We distribute food to local food pantries, churches, food banks, soup kitchens, senior meals programs, after school programs, among others. Our OC Food Bank partners with the OC Food Access Coalition to increase systems access to more donated food. In FY 2016, we acquired and distributed a record 22,403,928 pounds of food to nearly 400 service providers, feeding over 330,000 (unduplicated) residents in need. Additionally, in collaboration with the California Association of Food Bank's Farm to Family program, in 2016 our Food Bank acquired 3,454,847 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables for underserved, at-risk families, individuals, seniors and veterans.

The OC Food Bank's Farm to Family fresh produce program uniquely addresses the issues of food insecurity, obesity, and healthier lifestyle practices. Collaborating with the California Association of Food Banks and farmers, the OC Food Bank acquires locally grown fresh produce at below wholesale prices and efficiently distributes them to the community. The Food Bank leverages other safety-net services such as health, wellness and consumer education programs to help at-risk populations acquire skills to become more food secure and knowledgeable about nutrition and healthy lifestyles.

Thanks to the support of the S.L. Gimbel Foundation, the OC Food Bank was able to acquire an additional 83,333 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables, providing approximately 69,444 meals for hungry families and individuals. This produce was distributed to 16,667 needy children, adults and seniors through local charities, food pantries, soup kitchens, CSFP senior food box distribution sites and at our two family resource  11. Please describe any challenges/obstacles the organization encountered (if any) in attaining stated goals & Objectives.

In spite of an improved economy and a lower unemployment rate, median household income remains 1.6% lower than it was in 2007. Orange County's overall cost of living is 85% higher than the national average, while in comparison, median family income is only 42% higher than the nation's median. A minimum-wage worker in Orange County must work 102 hours per week to afford a one-bedroom unit at fair-market rent. (Orange County Community Indicators Report 2016).

Local charities are experiencing more requests for emergency food and services, putting strains on the resources of the OC Food Bank. Food donations are particularly sparse during the summer and spring months. Additionally, higher wholesale costs and transportation expenses have driven the OC Food Bank's cost of fresh produce from 0.10 to 12 cents a pound.

 12. How did you overcome and/or address the challenges and obstacles?

 12. How did you overcome and/or address the challenges and obstacles?

By leveraging other funding streams and resources, the OC Food Bank was able to acquire and distribute 1,382,999 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables during the grant period (Dec. 1, 2016 to June 30, 2017), to approximately 276,560 low-income households.

 13. Describe any unintended positive outcomes as a result of the efforts supported by this grant.

The OC Food bank was able to leverage the S.L. Gimbel Foundation's grant donation with other major foundation and corporate donors such as Bank of America, Pacific Life, PIMCO, OC United Way, Wells Fargo, etc. to help more underserved communities gain access to fresh produce, healthier diets and better nutrition.

Food insecure households were also made more financially stable by staff assisting eligible people to apply for Federal food assistance programs (i.e. SNAP/Cal Fresh) and free income tax filing services, helping them receive vital tax refunds such as the Earned Income Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit.

 14. Briefly describe the impact this grant has had on your organization.

* 14. Briefly describe the impact this grant has had on your organization.

The communities we serve suffer from high rates of poverty. An estimated 330,000 people live in poverty in Orange County, and one in five children are at risk of hunger each day. Many of those affected are the working poor, who struggle to support their families in a county that has one of the highest costs of living in the nation. Low-income neighborhoods frequently have high concentrations of fast food restaurants, and they often lack full-service grocery stores where residents can buy fresh produce and health foods. Healthy food is also much more expensive than what these families can afford, forcing them to buy food that is filling and inexpensive, but often high in calories and sugar or fat.

The OC Food Bank's Farm to Family program addresses these needs by obtaining fresh, seasonal produce for struggling families and seniors. Thanks to the support of community leaders such as the S.L. Gimbel Foundation, vulnerable communities not only receive the nutritious food they need to lead healthy lives, the produce helps to supplement their limited income.

Success Stories

Please use the following spaces to provide any client stories, antidotes, or quotes to showcase the success and impact you were able to achieve due to this funding.

 16. Please relate a success story:

CAPOC and its OC Food Bank play a key role in improving the health of seniors who lack access to healthy food. Farm to Family/Farm to Seniors alleviates hunger and malnutrition by advocating for healthy food choices and fresh produce consumption.

Cuong and Vivian are an elderly Vietnamese couple enrolled in the OC Food Bank's CSFP (Commodity Supplemental Food Program) senior food box program. Due to their advanced age and health, they are unable to work and have a small, fixed income. Food sold in the supermarkets is too expensive for their household budget. They live in Section 8 housing and must borrow their son's car every time they need to travel somewhere or to pick-up their monthly food box.

Cuong loves that our food boxes have a variety of healthy and nutritious food along with fresh produce that the two of them can prepare and eat at home. Receiving this food means they can spend their limited dollars on other necessities, such as rent and medicine. They are grateful for the compassionate assistance of the OC Food Bank and also note that having a support system helps them keep from feeling lonely.

17. Please relate a success story here:

"During the 1960's, I worked for a booming company in California and I would travel to many countries while living a modest lifestyle. However, when I was about sixty-two, the company went bankrupt and I was left unemployed. I tried to two years straight looking for work, but nowhere paid me nearly as much as my old work did. As time went on, I realized that the job market was looking quite bleak for me and decided to retire. I applied for SSI, however I need extra help with food. People need to realize that applicants who apply for food assistance are not lazy people; instead we are people from all walks of life that have overcome many obstacles and sometimes just need a boost. Being a diabetic, I have to watch my diet and the food and fresh fruits and vegetables provided by the Orange County Food Bank are very helpful."
